SHORT COURSES

Let us design a customised programme to meet your group's needs, taught by the University's academic staff, delivered on our beautiful campus on the East coast of England.

ENGLAND

The University of East Anglia delivers short residential courses throughout the year. Our tailored programmes provide the opportunity to spend a short period of study in England learning at the university voted #1 for student experience in the UK.

Our courses are delivered for small and large groups, and vary in academic level to suit requirements. Participants are often working in the education or government sectors, or are current high school or university students looking to develop academic skills or experience education in the UK. We also offer intercultural communication programmes for groups wishing to develop their English skill level.
